PPCS 470 Internship

Students majoring in PPCS will take all courses in the major. Students have the option to double major in a discipline or field of their choosing. If students double major, they do not have to have a focus area of study. Students majoring only in PPCS are required to have a focus area. A focus area is selected from the following list of offerings, or can be designed according to the student's interests and vocational goals. In either instance, the focus area is selected or designed in consultation with the faculty advisor and Department Chair.
